He was a master of his craft, a skilled mechanic who could fix anything that came his way.

Ricky was a family man who took pride in his role as a father. His love extended even further to his grandchildren, who brought him immense joy. He was a devoted fan of the Dallas Cowboys and Chicago Bulls and passionately cheered on his teams. He enjoyed the great outdoors and spent countless moments fishing. Ricky also had a fondness for snakes, finding beauty and intrigue in creatures that many others avoided.
